Radochowska Cave is one of the largest caves in the Sudetes. Located inside the Bzowiec Mountain in the Golden Mountains, in the Łądek-Zdrój municipality. It has been known since the 18th century, but still hides many secrets. A tour of the cave is a thrilling crossing of karst cracks and corridors. In the central part you can see a variety of dripstone robes and a lake where endemic crustaceans - Tatra wells - live. The cave is not illuminated and each participant of the tour receives a helmet with a headlamp for the duration of the tour. The tour takes place with a qualified guide. On the way to the cave there is the Radochowska Winery, specializing in Lower Silesian wines, and the Radochowska Apiary, offering honey from its own harvest.

The Moving Nativity Scene is the work of Frantisek Stepan, who started sculpting his work at the age of only 15. After twenty years of painstaking work, he made more than 250 figures, which, when moved by hand, constituted a nativity scene. The crib figures depict scenes from the lives of shepherds, townsmen and the birth of Jesus Christ.

Nowa Ruda, a city of red sandstone, invites you to explore it. The most beautiful panoramas of the surrounding area are offered by two lookout towers, which are located on adjacent hills: Mount Anne and All Saints' Mountain. Systems of well integrated urban and mountain bike trails, which connect the Polish-Czech borderland, await the active. Attractive open-air events encouraged filmmakers to make films and commercials, e.g., „Pokot” by Agnieszka Holland, the series „Znaki” or the beer commercial „Żywiec”. Far from Japan, but closely related to it due to Franz Eckert, a Nowa Ruda citizen who was the creator of the anthem Japan, which is still valid today. More interesting facts to discover in the city's mobile app, which can be downloaded from PLAY and App Store under the Nowa Ruda password.
